

A photograph of the National Theatre building in London, featuring its iconic concrete brutalist architecture. In the foreground, a lush rooftop garden with various green plants is visible. A group of people, dressed in formal attire, are gathered on a wooden walkway within the garden, suggesting a social event or reception. The sky is filled with white and grey clouds.

Sustainability

As part of our journey to achieve climate net zero, we are employing several strategies to change our relationship with the planet for the better.

Across our menus, we:

Use a minimum of 80% British seasonal fruit & vegetables

Feature sustainable fish stocks and high-welfare British poultry & pork

Have introduced lower carbon red meat alternatives, such as venison

Ensure plant-based options make up 25% of our offering

In the building, we have:

Switched to a zero-carbon electricity tariff

Eliminated most single-use plastic

Installed locally controlled LED lighting across our event spaces

This commitment has been recognised with a

Green Meetings Bronze Award.

Accessibility

- Access to the Buffini Chao Deck is via lifts to the third floor.
- A shallow paved ramp takes you to the terrace, with automatic button-operated doors leading into the main space.
- Lasdun is on the first floor mezzanine of the Theatre, and offers step-free access through a Priority Lift, found behind the Atrium café.
 - The Buffini Chao Deck and Lasdun are both wheelchair accessible but the number of wheelchair users who can be accommodated can sometimes be limited. Please check with our team.
- There is an accessible toilet in the Buffini Chao Deck and Lasdun.
- There is free parking in the National Theatre car park for Blue Badge holders. The car park is under the National Theatre and there is ramp access to the lifts in the basement.
